

THIS IS THE 1967 MUSTANG in which five students were drowned when their car slid off a wooden bridge Saturday night into six feet water in a drainage ditch.

THE SWIFT DITCH was the scene of the fatal drowning of five students Saturday night. Their car left this wooden bridge, overturned and landed on its top. The camera is pointed east on the Champion lane gravel road, one mile east of highway 61, five miles north of Matthews. The car was pulled from the water in the foreground.

Suspended Charleston Patrolman Discharged

CHARLESTON — Suspended wearing a uniform when the police patrolman Frank Hudson Jr. was discharged from duty today by City Manager James Butts as a result of an incident in the Negro section Tuesday night. Butts said the decision was his own, based on Hudson's "irrational action and imprudent use of firearms."

Mine Operators Refuse Send Men in Shaft

HOMINY FALLS, W.Va. (AP) — Mine operators are refusing to send their men back to work in honeycombed Big Sewell Mountain until rescue workers locate the bodies of 10 men believed to have drowned in a flooded coal shaft here, an official said.

There are at least nine active mines in the mountain, owned by Maust Coal Co. and the Imperial Coal Co. Some are operated by subsidiaries of these large companies and others by independent contractors.

In addition there is a maze of abandoned mine tunnels and the mine operators have realized that they too might be tunneling dangerously close to one of these old flooded workings.

Five Students Die When Car Plunges off Bridge

MATTHEWS — Five students drowned Saturday night when a 1967 Mustang, owned by Miss Wilma Sue Burns, 22, Maryland Heights, St. Louis county, skidded off an open wooden bridge, five miles northeast of here on the Champion lane road.

Drowned were Willis Ray Rogers Jr., 21, his sister, Mary Bess Rogers, 16, and Mason Lee Yarbrough, 17, all of route two, Matthews; Wilma Sue Burns, 22, Maryland Heights; and Karen Sue Galloway, 21, York, Pa.

Rogers, a University of Missouri junior at Columbia, brought Miss Burns and Galloway for a visit with his parents, who lived near the scene of the accident.

The five students left the Rogers home about 8:30 p.m. Saturday to buy refreshments in Sikeston. The bridge covers what is known as the Swift drainage ditch, and is near a swimming place called Wolf hole.

The bridge is on a straight line with a gravel road. It is believed the car slid off the runners of the bridge. It then flipped over on its top in water six feet deep, trapping the occupants.

It was raining. All windows of the two-door car were rolled up.

The students were missing Saturday night. Police were alerted and a search began.

Willis Ray Rogers Sr., the father of two of the victims and Flip Dees, a deputy sheriff, found the overturned car in the ditch, with the wheels above the water, Sunday at 9 a.m.

The gravel road is between Interstate 55 and highway 61, about four miles south of Sikeston. The ditch is about one mile east of highway 61.

There are no bridge railings on the 40-foot wooden span.

Young Rogers was a junior at the University of Missouri. His sister was a junior in Matthews high school.

Yarbrough was a senior at Matthews high and president of student council. He was a candidate for graduation Thursday night.

Miss Galloway was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Galloway of York, and a junior at Stephens College, Columbia.

Miss Burns was the daughter of Mrs. Glen Blake, Maryland Heights. She was also a student.

Rogers was born April 9, 1947, at East Prairie. Survivors are his father and mother, one sister, Mrs. Barbara Kay Causey of Sikeston; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Delia Tanksley of East Prairie.

He was a member of the Church of God.

His sister was born June 1, 1951, at East Prairie. She also was a member of the Church of God.

Yarbrough was born May 30, 1950, at Sikeston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grandville Yarbrough of Matthews.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Charles and David Keith Yarbrough, both of Matthews; two half brothers, Jimmy Yarbrough of Zion, Ill., and Ronald Hartline of Cape Girardeau; two half sisters, Mrs. Bobby Joe Sweet of Fox Lake, Ill., and Mrs. Gene Ditto of East Prairie; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Georgia Hartline of Sikeston and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Yarbrough of Sikeston.

Yarbrough had been a resident of New Madrid county most of his life.

Services for Rogers, his sister and Yarbrough will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Shelby

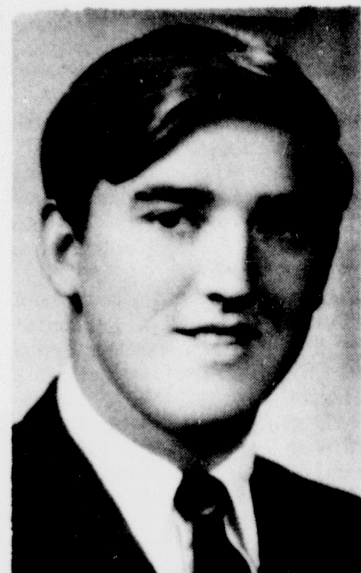

Funeral Chapel in East Prairie with the Rev. Charles Gammill Matthews, assisted by the Rev. J. L. Hatchel of East Prairie, officiating.

Burial will be in the WOW cemetery at East Prairie.

Miss Galloway was born Oct. 30, 1946, in Philadelphia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Galloway of York.

Her body was flown today from the Shelby Funeral Home to Riley Funeral Home in York. Services will be in the chapel there at 9 a.m. Wednesday with burial in the Mont Rose cemetery in York.

Miss Burns was born at East Prairie. The body is at the Shelby Funeral Home.

U.S., Hanoi Exchange Scale-Down Challenges

PARIS (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam challenged each other today to take new steps to scale down the war in Southeast Asia. Both pledged serious efforts to find some basis for a peaceful settlement.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam, who spoke first at the opening round of substantive talks, called on the United States to end the rest of the bombing and "all other acts of war" against his country, but did so in words softer than expected. He made no threat of breaking off the talks if the demand is not quickly granted.

President Johnson's spokesman, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, asked for some sign of military restraint by North Vietnam that would meet the President's request for a de-escalation response to his March 31 ban of part of the bombing. What actually has happened, Harriman charged, is that North Vietnam has moved "substantial and increasing numbers of troops and supplies from the North to the South."

U.S. officials expected a blast from Thuy and they were not surprised when they got it. He accused the United States of aggression in South Vietnam and said the more it was defeated the more cruelly it responded — increasing attacks and sending in troops.

At the same time, he said he and his delegation had "come here with an attitude which is serious and full of good will."

Harriman opened his statement by saying the United States rejected many points Thuy had made but that the

POLITICAL REGULATION ON TRIAL

President Johnson has formally designated the week of May 14 as National Transportation Week and May 19 as National Defense Transportation Day. In his proclamation, he declared, "America's transportation network is a living testament to our system of free enterprise" but warned that to meet sharply rising demands for transportation services "transportation facilities must double every 20 years." The Chief Executive predicted the new Department of Transportation would help the transportation industry "develop new techniques and better integration of service... to assure the Nation the best, the most economical and the fastest transportation services the world has ever seen."

It is true that the transportation system in this country is a magnificent testimonial to the ability of investor owned, taxpaying industry to meet the astronomical transport demands of a nation of 200 million people. It is also true that our transport system is a product of free enterprise. But the term free enterprise as applied to transportation does not mean the same thing as in other areas of private endeavor. This is particularly true of the railroads, which are subject to archaic regulations — archaic because they were formulated when the rails were about the only means of transport and enjoyed a virtual monopoly position.

Today, the picture is far different, and the future of rail transport depends, in large measure, upon the updating of regulation. It is equally important that tax measures, such as the investment tax credit, be designed to encourage modernization and continuing investment in new and more efficient equipment. Most authorities now agree that despite short-term setbacks, the resurging rail industry faces a bright future. It is reestablished as a primary element of the transportation system. However, to a greater degree than other "free enterprise," its progress rests on the wisdom of those public officials who establish and carry out national transportation policy.

EAGLETON URGES LAW AND ORDER, PLUS ATTACK ON CAUSES OF RIOTS

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator from Missouri on issues yesterday in a campaign swing Ralls, Marion, and Lewis Counties.

Eagleton attended coffee hours in both Hannibal and Center in the morning and delivered speeches on the Hannibal-LaGrange campus of Missouri Baptist College in Hannibal and at Culver-Stockton College in Canton.

Vietnam was the subject of most questions put to Eagleton by students and newsmen alike during the day. The lieutenant governor stated that he was "pleased with the peace overtures presently being made by President Johnson toward a solution of the conflict." He called for a cease for agreement to be the first order of business for any Washington-Hanoi talks.

On the subject of urban disorders, the former Missouri attorney general suggested a two-prong attack be made on urban slums and "pockets of despair in our cities." He first called for "a re-emphasis of respect for law and order." Eagleton stated that looting, sniping, and arson could not be tolerated in our society. "Secondly," he continued, "we must attack the root of our urban problems through both the public and private sectors of our society. We must make a job and an education available to the 'unemployables' of our urban center."

Eagleton advocated a tax break for industries which had training programs for unemployed and unskilled in the cities.

He also called the President's proposed tax increase "distasteful, but necessary at this time." The increase is needed, he maintained, to curb inflation and reduce the federal budget deficit.

When asked what special interest he would have if elected, Lt. Gov. Eagleton replied that he "would like to become a participating Senator taking a broad interest in the varied fields of foreign policy, tax policy, urban problems, and rural America, rather than specializing in just one area."

Eagleton did not disclose a preference for any candidate now seeking the Democratic nomination for president. Stating that he respect all three men who are now seeking the Democratic nomination for President. Stating that he respect all three men who are now seeking or thought to be seeking the nomination, Eagleton continued to say that he favored the Missouri delegation to the convention supporting Gov. Warren Hearnes as a "favorite son" candidate on the first ballot, allowing them to make their final decision at the convention.

"Overheard" causes many a man to lose his head.

Television is a wonderful medium for use by candidates who can afford to buy the time.

It permits them to speak to thousands and sometimes millions of viewers.

There is only one thing better and that is to see the candidates when they appear in person.

This also is expensive and often inconvenient.

Part of the audience also is lost. There are many lazy Americans, who will sit at home and listen to a candidate but not walk across a street to hear one.

Television appearances test a candidate to the breaking point and beyond.

Few candidates are former actors although the few who are can make a wonderful television appearance.

It may be true that a phony can be spotted quickly on television and that the virtues of sincerity and straight-forward good character are rewarded by the medium.

In between the blacks and whites is a sea of grey into which all the presidential candidates have been tossed.

The best of them don't look too handsome or sound too well.

The reason they don't is that the best of them are compared by the public with the most able television commentators, who know how to dress, how to make-up, how to pose and how to act in the most convincing manner.

How do Richard Nixon, Bobby Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy, Nelson Rockefeller, Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace compare with Harry Reasoner, Walter Cronkite, Chet Huntley and David Brinkley?

They don't.

The obvious remedy would be to induce the television personalities to run for the presidency.

Without any effort to disparage the television industry it is probably true that in most instances that if any of these men were elected president, the country would not be pleased with the results.

There is more to running the country than in projecting a pleasant personality on television and in making the daily news events unfold in an interesting and engaging way.

The welfare of the country may be expected to continue to be served by politicians, who as television entertainers are second raters.

A majority of the American public favors cutting down on government spending for programs within the United States, according to an Opinion Research Corp. national survey. The poll indicated that public concern over inflation has reached a new high, and that a majority of families report that they have been hurt by inflation. These families report that rising prices have caused them to change their shopping habits. The members of Congress should heed the voices of the people and drastically cut federal spending for domestic programs.

Those who attack the use of trade-names, as in the pharmaceutical industry, overlook their vital function in the marketplace. According to the National Association of Manufacturers, "One of the most powerful factors in our American economy is the consumer's freedom of choice to purchase or to reject a particular product or service. By experience, assessing relative values, and through trade-name acceptance, the average consumer has become a most effective buyer. Legislative restrictions on the use of trade-names and compulsory use of generic ones would hinder rather than help the consumer at the marketplace."

To tell all you know is to be a bore.

At a time when other living costs are zooming upward news of a reduction in automobile rates certainly is welcome.

But Boothell residents should ponder their two per cent rate reduction, the lowest given in Missouri, and take intelligent action to improve their driving habits.

The average rate reduction, which applies only to renewals of existing insurance policies, in the state is almost six per cent and the highest in metropolitan St. Louis amounts to 27 per cent. In neighboring Cape Girardeau county the reduction is nine per cent. The reason that the Boothell counties didn't get a larger reduction in rate is because they didn't earn it. Residents have been responsible for too many costly accidents.

As a means of reducing the cost of insurance, saving life, avoiding injury, preventing destruction of property and averting lost time on the job, driver education should be available by licensed drivers for every adult who wants to take it.

The instruction is not now available to many of those who are willing to pay for learning how to drive properly or to improve their driving habits.

Driver education should be made a requirement for graduation in all Boothell high schools. It is not a frill. It is a survival course. Education is not enough but it offers the best single hope of improving a bad driving record.

Better law enforcement, greater practice of brotherhood and courtesy by motorists and the refusal to mix gasoline in the car with alcohol in the driver all will contribute to a reduction in highway accidents.

The cost in dollars in the least offensive aspect of today's toll on Boothell highways and streets but high insurance rates ultimately may spur drivers to do a better job behind the wheel. Appeals for other reasons haven't helped much.

NAM SAYS INDUSTRY OFFERS SOLUTION TO HARD-CORE JOBS

"The NAM shares President Johnson's conviction that providing training and jobs in private industry is the key to reducing hard-core unemployment," said W. P. Gullander, president, National Association of Manufacturers. "As the President has stated, six out of seven Americans who are provided by private industry."

"We welcome the recognition in significant results in this field the President's message that a and can look forward to continuing to hard-core unemployment and improvement. Good health solution requires a partnership between industry and government, greater efficiency and savings to We hope that there will be a full industry and thus provide their partnership in which industry will own incentive."

However, we now express reservations about the proposals which the President has outlined in this message. Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: findings of hazards "in each section" of a pipeline in order to compel replacements. "This is ridiculous," complained Moss. "There might be 100 sections of an old pipeline that are hazardous. The secretary would have to make 100 findings to put it in shape to meet safety standards. It is a weak, badly drawn piece of legislation all around."

LOBBYIST GHOST WRITERS "One reason it's a bad bill is that it was written largely by lobbyists," declared Adams of Washington. "In at least five of six cases that I know about, the committee has adopted the precise language the lobbyists wanted in the bill."

The congressmen who have yielded to the lobbyists behind closed doors were: Horace Kornegay, N.C. Democrat, plus Republicans James Brovhill, N.C., James Harvey, Mich., and Donald Brown, Colo., and Clarence Brown, Ohio.

They weakened the bill so drastically that civil penalties were reduced from the senate figure of $400,000 to $100,000 for total damages to any person compared with the several million dollars of damages in the Queens fire.

Two of the lobbyists who fought hardest to weaken the pipeline inspection bill were Hal Connor and John A. Vance of Pacific Gas and Electric, the very same company whose pipeline exploded in San Jose last week.

They wanted state instead of federal inspection. Connor and Vance called on Rep. Moss and his administrative aide, John Billett, four times in one day, trying to weaken the pipeline bill. They called on Rep. Van Deelen eight times. Both congressmen stood firm.

The senate leaders for a tough pipeline bill were Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the senate commerce committee, and Vance Hartke, chairman of the subcommittee. They were successful until their efforts were undermined by lobbyists in the house.

Note: Pacific Gas and Electric has been much more community-minded of late. When P G & E undertook to build a nuclear reactor, it consulted the Sierra Club in advance to get its approval of the best place to locate the reactor. However, P G & E lobbyists did their best to persuade the house commerce committee to adopt an amendment to transfer pipeline inspection from the federal government to the states where utility commissions are notoriously weaker.

POOR PEOPLE'S MARCH It was behind closed doors, but Rep. William Cramer, R-Fla., was almost frantic in demanding that the house public works committee approve a bill forbidding the poor people's march from camping on federal property.

"Let's get to a vote on this," he yelled at chairman George Fallon, D-Md. "These marchers will begin arriving here in a few days. We've got to get a bill through congress to prevent misuse of federal property."

When Fallon finally quieted him down and called for a voice vote on the bill, only two members voted no. Reps. Richard McCarthy, D-N.Y., and Jerome Waldie, D-Calif.

"I'm not in favor of a campout on the mall, either," said McCarthy. "The administration officials are now endeavoring to get an agreement on an adequate campsite for all those moving in here. This bill isn't necessary. It will make the marchers feel that they have to negotiate under the gun for a suitable place."

"Legislation like this will be like a red flag, a slap in the face of the marchers before they have even arrived here," agreed Waldie. "Why jeopardize matters before the administration has had time to settle the problem?"

Cramer, however, didn't want any discussion. He kept calling on Rep. Moss and his administration aide, John Billett, committee and got it.

He said that the secretary have an equal voice in planning and managing the program.

"The objective must be to convert those who are presently unemployed into workers who can hold jobs on the basis of their own worth and their own productivity. Private employers are in the best position to understand realistically the skills, experience, and work habits an individual must possess to attain that status."

"The NAM stands ready to cooperate in the work of the new National Alliance of Businessmen. 'In view of the need for Government economy, which has never been greater, we urge that the necessary money for this new effort be derived by curtailing other Government programs, including other manpower programs."

"The NAM will comment later upon the specifics that the President has indicated he will propose in the field of occupational safety and health. However, we now express reservations about the proposals which the President has outlined in this message. Industry has achieved significant results in this field and can look forward to continuing to hard-core unemployment and improvement. "NAM is presently pioneering industrial mental health programs in addition to the familiar, continuing health and safety programs. We question the need for a major new federal program involving further regulation of industry practices in regard to health and safety," Mr. Gullander concluded.

STUDY. Under a pilot, $620,000 Office of Economic Opportunity grant to the University of Wisconsin, 800 families, beginning soon, will get "negative income tax" payments, averaging $1,200 a year. These payments, like a guaranteed annual income, would make up, supposedly, the difference between what the family bread winner earned and $3,000, plus, considered to be the threshold of the "poverty line." The payments are designed to encourage bread winners to find jobs, or better paying jobs. As their earned income increased, the "guaranteed" payments would decrease.

UNITED FRONT: Reuther Forces Prepare to Pull an Indiana For Bob Kennedy in California

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Indiana or no Indiana, labor's national high command, which has just gathered here, says it would rather fight than switch to Bob Kennedy.

That leaves New York's junior senator with just a minority of one — Walter Reuther — who wants to see the front-runner sprint into the White House.

The Kennedy-Reuther coalition now is tightly interlocked, having been tempered by their shoulder-to-shoulder campaigning in the Hoosier state primary.

During the Martini moments in hotel lounges or suites, the national labor chiefs need no bitters for their drinks. They tell each other they'd have stopped Bob Kennedy last Tuesday instead of just slowing him, if not for that "redheaded son of a b---- from Detroit."

That isn't elegant but it's accurate. Reuther's political Citizenships councils, whipped up by UAW regional director Ray Brandt, went gung ho for Kennedy. They brought in Ted Kennedy. They called in their regional people to meet with him at special luncheons. They spent heavily. They supplied the missing link — a labor image for Kennedy's charisma and political fortune.

They helped "Bob" beat back even the powerful pro-Humphrey Steel Workers chiefs. No easy assignment, this. The United Steelworkers District 31 in Lake County, Ill., running eastward from Chicago along Lake Michigan, has over 75,000 members of the dense steel belt, half of whom are Negroes. District 30 (Indianapolis), the huge union has 30,000 members.

Their national and regional leaders fought Bob Kennedy as though he were a latter-day Andrew Carnegie. But they lost. Reuther's constant attack on the nation's AFL-CIO leaders as "guardians of the status quo" and as enemies of Negro workers may not have been totally responsible for Kennedy's win, but the blasts did help.

All of it was encouraged by the "redhead" despite his concentration on the UAW convention in Atlantic City. There is no doubt he was in contact with Kennedy's top strategists here and during their Indiana circuit riding.

McCarver--Take Charge Guy

By CHARLIE BAROUGH just the way I do things' Associated Press Sports Writer ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I play professional baseball" Tim McCarver began. "I'm a catcher. The catcher calls the pitches, catches the ball, throws out runners and hits."

It's that simple. Just mechanics. Then the St. Louis Cardinals' catcher fills in the details. McCarver can fill them in well, because he's rated one of the best at his job.

"Taking charge of a game, driving it, this is the catcher's job," McCarver acknowledged. "But you can't make it seem more important than it is. If you have an experienced pitcher he makes it look like you're taking charge. They know what to do and then they want to give you credit."

Even if it's the pitcher who is making McCarver look like he's in charge, M. McCarver is a take charge guy.

"If I seem like a take-charge guy I guess it's just the way I play the game," McCarver said. Like (Minnesota catcher John) Roseboro, he doesn't say anything and he's a take-charge guy. But he takes charge without anyone noticing he's taking charge.

"I might exhibit it more outwardly on the field, but it's more than 100 games for the Cardinals for the past five seasons. He has already played in two world championship teams.

What's the toughest part of catching?

"Hitting," the Memphis native laughed. "Sometimes hitting really is the toughest part."

"I think defense runs in streaks," said the lifetime .222 hitter. "I've gone weeks when I'll have two or three passed balls and then go months without one."

"But you can't take extra catching," Tim grinned again. "If you do it enough you won't have a chance to make mistakes. You'll be out of there."

McCarver was runnerup to Orlando Cepeda for the 1967 champion Cardinals in the National League's most valuable player balloting.

Pitcher Bob Gibson has worked with McCarver six years and he agrees with Tim about the fine and rugged art of catching.

"He's a good hitter," Gibson laughed. "That makes anyone a good catcher. But he can throw out the runners, handle the low pitches and the ones that bounce. He knows the hitters and watches them in the batter's box. Sometimes he notices things that I don't see. And you don't have to keep shaking him off on every call, which would bother a pitcher."

McCarver sums up his relationship to a pitcher this way: "You've got to know the pitchers pretty well, personally and baseball-wise, because a lot of things can affect them."

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes

Gibson Handed Second Loss; Shannon Hammers Sixth

By CHARLIE BAROUGH Associated Press Sports Writer ST. LOUIS (AP) — Larry Dierker and Bob Gibson both figured they didn't want to be beaten by a walk, but figuring wasn't enough for Gibson.

The St. Louis Cardinals' right-hander gave up a basesloaded hit instead to Denis Menke, and that gave the Houston Astros a 3-2 victory over the Cardinals Sunday.

Dierker pledged before the game that he would concentrate on not walking any men, because 26 men in 53 innings is enough. And they always seem to beat him, he said.

Dierker didn't walk anybody Sunday, so there was nobody to beat him and he boosted his record to 3-5. Gibson's record dropped to 3-2.

"That was what I was concentrating on," Dierker said. "I didn't want to keep on walking guys. And it worked."

The 2-year-old right-hander didn't get many runs either, but he says he's reconciled to that.

"I didn't pitch well in my first two outings," Larry admitted, "but since then I've been pitching real well. They just haven't been able to get many runs for me. I was beginning to feel heeled."

The hex seemed to be on going into the seventh. Each team had scored an unearned run early in the game. Then in the fourth inning Mike Shannon of the Cards lined his six-homer of the year just over the left field wall.

Gibson looked like that one-run lead was all he would need. He struck out nine men in the first six innings and finished eight innings of work with a total of 10. But the Astros jumped him in the seventh.

Ron Davis led off with a single and after Norm Miller was hit by a pitch, Jim Wynn bunted for a hit and loaded the bases. Gibson got the next two men. Then, with the count ball-two, Menke singled in the go-ahead runs.

"He had to come in with a fast ball," Menke explained, "which I don't think he wanted to throw. But I think he would rather have a man beat him with a hit than a walk."

This is true, Gibson said.

Matty Alou Waits on Pitches And Hits to Opposite Field

By MATTY ALOU Of the Pittsburgh Pirates

The big thing that helped me get to the major leagues was being quick with my hands. With a quick bat I was able to wait a bit longer to get a good look at the pitch.

Harry Walker helped me the most in 1966, the first year he was our manager. He's the only one who ever talked to me about hitting.

I was a pull hitter with the San Francisco Giants and in my last year with them, 1965, I hit only .231. So they traded me to the Harry knew I was a fast runner and being a left handed batter I could always get a good jump toward first base. He told me if I could hit to the opposite field I would have a better batting average.

I worked with me the entire spring training of 1966. He wanted me to hit all pitches toward left field. What a difference it made. I hit .342 in 1966 and won the National League batting title. Not only that but by getting 183 bases I was able to move my stolen bases up from 10 to 23.

Once in a while when the fielders play me more toward left field I pull the ball. I've got to keep the fielders honest so they don't bunch up on the left side.

To hit to left field I not only waited on the pitch a bit longer but I went to a heavier bat. It's 37 ounces. I used to swing a 32-ounce bat and would swing in a hurry.

I had trouble with the curve ball with the lighter bat. Now I hit a curve ball better than ever.

(Matty Alou, 29, hit .338 last season, third best figure in the National League. Now regarded as one of baseball's scientific hitters, in two years he moved his career average from .259 to .301. His older brother Felipe plays with Atlanta's Braves and his younger brother Jesus is with the Giants).

Oldest PGA tour winner in 1967 was 47-year-old Julius Boros.

OTTAWA (AP) — Arthur Sargeant, trainer of the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League since 1960, died of a heart attack at his home Sunday. He was 52.

Charleston School Plans Approved, Election May 28

CHARLESTON -- The R-1 board of education approved tentative plans for a new 900 to 1,000-student elementary school complex and has called a $580,000 bond issue election May 28.

The school would be located on the east end of the junior high school grounds, partially on the site of the football playing field. It would replace the old buildings at the Eugene Field and Mark Twain School locations, and would also accommodate children from Wyatt Washington and Lincoln Schools.

General outlines of the building were shown by Walter Kromm of the firm of Kromm, Rikimaru and Johansen, Inc., architects, St. Louis.

The proposed school will consist of a diamond-shaped "core" housing music rooms, kitchen, multi-purpose rooms (cafeteria and physical education), rest rooms and offices. On two ends of the diamond will be located four eight-sided pods, each containing four large open areas to be used as classrooms for a team of teachers. The center of each pod will house teachers' classroom for audio-visual instruction and library facilities.

A special joint meeting of the Mark Twain and Eugene Field Parent Teachers Associations will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. to begin organizing for the bond issue election campaign.

Discussing financing of the proposed new school, Superintendent Tom Wells said his figures show it can be paid for with a tax levy increase of 10 cents on the $100 valuation for four years. The 10-cent levy could be dropped after the 1972-73 school year, as earlier bond issues are paid off and payments begin to drop.

The board authorized the superintendent to proceed with removal of the football stadium from its present location to a site south of the new high school, clearing a place for the new elementary school.

Under the central school plan, Anniston and Bertrand will keep their elementary schools as at present, while Wyatt and Charleston youngsters will attend the central school in years 1 through 5, and Lincoln School in year 6.

The Washington School at Wyatt will be abandoned, and the new steel building at that location will be disassembled and moved to the high school grounds, where it will serve as a vocational agriculture building and athletic dressing rooms.

The present kindergarten building will be used as part of the central elementary school, and kindergarten instruction will be moved to the modern, one-story building on the Eugene Field School grounds.

Polling places for the May 28 election will be the armory, Wyatt Washington, Bertrand School, and Anniston School.

In other action the board: Hired 11 new teachers, including: Karen Totty, elementary speech correction;

Robert Miller, sixth grade, Jackson, who retired from the Anniston; Alvin Fields, Lincoln; board in April, and attended by Judy Alcorn, fourth grade, the administrators, principals Bertrand; Martha Lyons, CHS English; Jeffrey P. Graves, CHS industrial arts; C. Gay Sievers, junior high physical education; Lucian Black, CHS physical education; Roger Dale Hatley, Anniston special opportunity school; Linda Hatley, junior high vocal music.

Granted a one-year leave of absence to Delores Harvey, who has received a fellowship to attend Missouri University to obtain her master's degree. She will return to the local district in 1969.

Accepted the resignation of Richard Martin, Bertrand School teacher.

Voted to recognize the Community Teachers Association as the representative for teachers in discussions with the administration and board. A formal policy statement of this relationship will be drawn up later.

Voted to purchase new uniforms for the marching band, replacing the outfits bought 11-12 years ago.

Set Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the date for a meeting with an investigator from the Missouri Commission on Human Rights. The commission has filed a complaint against the local district charging discrimination by race in the fields of pupil and teacher assignment. The meeting will be held at the A. D. Simpson building.

Discussed staffing of the special opportunities school at Anniston.

Discussed the problem of paving the road in front of the new high school prior to the opening of school next fall.

Heard a report from assistant superintendent Louis Chaney on a proposed team teaching workshop for junior high teachers this summer. The two-week workshop will be held under the direction of Dr. Donald Hair, assistant superintendent of schools at Kansas City, and will be paid for with Title I federal funds.

Approved a bookkeeping change in the 1968-69 budget to permit the superintendent to use surplus balances for purposes of painting the interior of the junior high school with epoxy paint, putting Torginol on the downstairs hall and boys' restroom floors, and moving the football stadium. Mr. Wells estimated the cost of junior high work at $3,300. He said the complete cost of moving the football field and erecting new stands could eventually be as high as $35,000, but said the work to be done this summer will include only purchase and erection of lights and moving bleachers.

Deferred action on a request for funds for basketball and tennis courts at Lincoln School, pending receipt of information on total cost figures.

Approved a summer Headstart program for five-year-olds at the Eugene Field School this summer. Miss Modena Garwood will be the supervisor and funds will be provided by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The board meeting was held following a dinner in the student commons honoring Mrs. W. Clifton Banta and Robert C.

Seniors

Dear Mr. Blanton:
Just a note about your timely and well written editorial on May 6, in regards to socialized medicine and socialism in general.
My only hope would be, that more Editors through out the country would write such timely editorials as yours. This is just one instance, of many, in which governments are taking freedom away from professional and business people.

Keep up the good work and keep telling citizens of our District about these faults which are certainly not doing our country any good. I agree with you one hundred percent about this problem and many others.

Congratulations are also in order for the awards which your paper recently received at the Annual Missouri Press Association contest. My congratulations to you and the people of your paper for winning these awards.

My personal regards.
Sincerely yours,

LILBOURN - Lilbourn's new administration was off to a rousing start Monday night as it considered such matters as fire trucks, wells, cleanup and drainage.

Officials installed for the first time were Mayor Jim Dambach, Alderman Joe Duncan and Police Judge L. V. Stevens.

Reappointed by the board were Harold Jones, city attorney, and Marge Stevens, city treasurer. Leon Riggs was appointed city clerk, replacing Dambach in that position.

The city accepted the bid of Towers Fire Apparatus Co., Inc., of Freeburg, Ill., to equip a new fire truck. The contract will be signed in about two weeks. Dimbach said that the city plans to complete all details and place the order for the fire truck this month.

The mayor said that the board is studying the possibility of digging a second well to the city water system. He added that the Department of Health has recommended this for a long time.

POPLAR BLUFF - Edna Lee Evans, a 39-year-old area drifter and former mental patient, was ordered held for trial in circuit court on two charges of first degree murder following a preliminary hearing.

The hearing was conducted by Butler County Magistrate Judge Jack Jolly with Prosecuting Attorney William Prosen representing the state.

Evans is accused in the slaying of Mrs. Maple Hudson Williams, 41, and Earl Myers, 75, at the Williams home in Neelyville on April 25. The victims were found shot to death, apparently with a large caliber hunting rifle.

Evans was arrested by Trooper Kenneth Lancaster of Doniphan and Sheriff Lewis Dawes at the home of Evans' cousin near Currentview. Evans has admitted the killings and was reported to have been a "close acquaintance" of Mrs. Williams.

The defendant was present at the hearing, sobbing throughout the proceedings, but did not testify.

Middle guard Jim Pritchett and defensive tackle Chuck Andrews, members of Western Michigan's football team, were star shot putters in high school.

RESPONSIVE

The slightest touch elicits an immediate response from a sensitive plant. Here seedlings are growing in a pre-planted container; can be potted later for house use or grown outdoors.

The most delicate touch of a fingertip on a single leaflet of a sensitive plant is sufficient to cause that leaflet to fold up in response.

Run the tip of a finger down the stem from which leaflets grow and all of them collapse, face to face, one against another. Hit the stem, no matter how gently, and it will instantly bend downward.

The person who named the sensitive plant Mimosa pudica in botanical Latin must have had a sense of humor for Mimosa comes from the Greek word "mimos", an actor, while pudica means modest. A modest actor it is indeed — retreating at a touch.

This physiological response of the true leaves to touch makes the sensitive plant one of the most remarkable in the plant kingdom.

It has been a source of wonder to successive generations of children who like nothing better than to watch the plant react to their manipulations. Oddly, the first two leaves to appear (the seed leaves) do not respond to touch.

Of course these startling movements do the plant no harm. It recovers within minutes (faster if it is growing in full sun), but it may be several hours before it performs again.

Sensitive plant, a native of the sub-tropics, may be grown from seeds for use as a house plant or in the garden. Its only needs are a sunny spot and constant moisture in the soil.

The fine, lacy leaves are pretty, the ball-shaped pink to lavender flowers dainty, the plant is easy to grow. So easy that it is available in pre-planted containers at your supermarket. Grow it yourself and be sure to send a container to the nearest school so the children may grow and watch this wonder.

Men Ready in Reserve

The U.S. Army Reserve is 60 years old this month. But that's only the age of the name. For, as every schoolboy knows, the man behind the name traces his origins as a citizen-soldier far back to the hearty, individualistic Minutemen of the colonial militias.

When the nation's reservists mark April 23 — the 60th anniversary of the day in 1908 when Congress established the Medical Reserve Corps — they will be calling attention to the modern descendants of the militia: the Army Reserve and the Army National Guard, which was created as a new component of the Army on June 5, 1933.

At the same time, we might also call attention to the descendants of the Minutemen: the Guardsman and the Army Reservist.

Their legacy of service remains unchanged, though certainly their weapons and materiel have greatly changed. The modern men in reserve make an important contribution to the nation's defense in many ways.

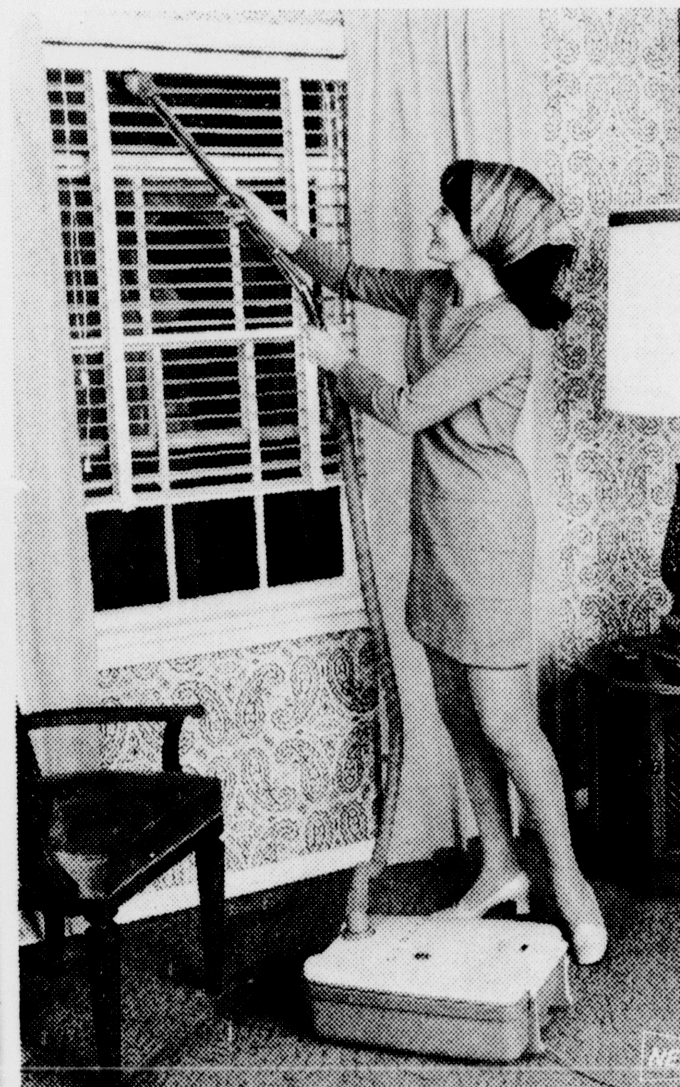

• They fight. In Vietnam today nearly 75 per cent of all officers on duty have Army Reserve commissions or warrants.

• They're ready to fight. Some 150,000 Guardsmen and Reservists form a Selected Reserve Force prepared to handle crises anywhere. With combat, combat support and service support elements, this force is considered the most ready reserve force in the nation's history.

• They defend. Army National Guardsmen man more than 40 per cent of the NIKE HERCULES air defense missile sites in the continental United States.

• They're ready to defend. The National Guard has a drill strength of some 400,000 men, and the Army Reserve has a ready reserve strength of 260,000 — all prepared for immediate mobilization in an emergency.

They do all this and much more. Like Americans on active military duty around the world, Guardsmen and Army Reservists are pledged to preserving the freedom their forebears won. They are the nation's strength in reserve. (ANF)

HERE'S AN IDEA for homemakers who want to keep their figures trim and their home sparkling at the same time. You can plan an exercise routine whereby you'll burn up calories and increase muscle tone while undertaking your spring cleaning chores. Arm muscles can become firmer as you vacuum your Venetian blinds.

TIRUCHIRAPPALLI, India (AP) — Two customs officers had a spicy case on their hands.

The officers, on a motorcycle, gave chase to a car which sped through a checkpoint near this south Indian city. The driver finally abandoned his car, dived into a river and escaped. The officers found in the car five bags of cloves, presumably smuggled into India from Ceylon.

STATE MEDICAL NEEDS DEMAND 100 EXTRA DOCTORS ANNUALLY

JEFFERSON CITY - A special report released last week to the Missouri Commission on Higher Education estimates that the state will have to produce about 100 more medical school graduates per year from among state residents to meet its growing need for doctors.

The report, prepared by Dr. Stanley V. Olson of Vanderbilt University, says planned enrollment increases in the state's three medical and two osteopathic schools will not be sufficient. Although he made no specific recommendations for action, Dr. Olson did describe two possible alternatives - construction of a new state medical school at Kansas City or state support for the four existing private schools.

Expansion of the University of Missouri Medical School in Columbia, third alternative being considered by the Commission on Higher Education, is not discussed in the report.

Missouri's private medical schools are located at St. Louis University and Washington University of St. Louis. The two colleges of osteopathy and surgery are at Kirksville and Kansas City.

The proposal to put a medical school in Kansas City dates back to 1951. Kansas City lost out when it was decided to expand the two-year medical school on the Columbia campus to a full four-year program.

Dr. Olson's report details current deficiencies in the state's medical education effort.

Missouri ranks 40th among the states in number of entering medical students per 100,000 population. The number of Missourians starting medical studies in the U.S. each year is about 50 to 60 fewer than the national average.

Missouri's ratio of physicians to population is about the national average, but only because it has the highest ratio of osteopathic physicians of any state. Two of the nation's five osteopathic schools are located in Missouri.

If current trends hold true, the number of doctors in the state will increase 8.2 per cent in the next ten years. In the same period, the state's population is expected to increase 15.2 per cent.

The University Medical School graduates 1.68 M.D.s per year per 100,000 population, a ratio equal to that in Illinois, but less than half the ratio for Kansas and Oklahoma, one-third the ratio for Nebraska and one-fifth the ratio for Arkansas.

A low proportion of Missouri medical school graduates stay in the state to practice. And the percentage of out-of-state graduates coming into Missouri is decreasing.

At present, the state's three medical schools plan an enrollment increase of 49 students by 1970. Thirty per cent will be at the University Medical School and the two osteopathic schools project an enrollment increase of 11 per cent.

Dr. Olson indicates that a Missouri resident educated in a Missouri medical school is more likely to stay in the state to practice, but the effort to build up the state's medical personnel and training facilities will take time. "If it were determined that a new medical school should be established in practice. These objectives could be obtained in a somewhat shorter period of time through the support of expanded enrollment in existing schools," the report says.

However, Dr. Olson also said it might be unconstitutional for the state to support private medical schools. State constitutions in Pennsylvania, Florida and Kentucky do allow this support, he said.

Ann Landers Dutiful Daughter Tells Pitfalls of Her Plight

Dear Ann Landers: Please Harry was too handsome and print this letter for "Dutiful Daughter Eve." I hope it is not too late for her.

I was also a Dutiful Daughter. My dear mother never drew a healthy breath that I can remember. When her two sons left the nest, her "frail" health kept Father chained to her side. When Father died, the duty fell on me.

No man I dated was "suitable." Tom did not come from a background worthy of mine. Dick was after my money.

The report estimates the cost of supporting a single resident student at a private medical school at $5,000 a year.

GOVERNOR BUSY WITH SPEECHES

Missouri Governor Warren E. Hearnes has been busy the past few weeks with many speaking engagements, speaking out against chaotic and unruly dissent.

Addressing a civic club in Springfield on May 4, he proclaimed that "no individual or group - regardless of their cause - can be allowed to contribute to chaos." Hearnes mentioned that he had been criticized for the "authorization of deadly force" in the recent civil disturbances in Kansas City. However, he pointed out that although deadly force alone will not solve the root causes, it did control the violence.

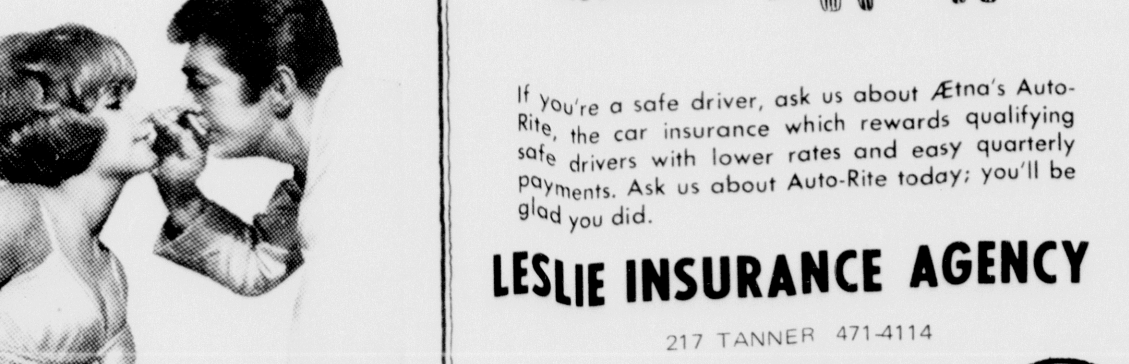

Later in an address at Culver-Stockton College at Conton May 7, the Governor spoke of the right of dissent among college students. He said that although the avenues of dissent must be kept open, at the same time "decline of dissent into lawlessness" must not be tolerated.

Hearnes cited a few student demonstrations of the past few weeks "done under the guise of 'protest' and 'dissent' rather than under the somewhat more accurate terms of 'lawlessness' and perhaps even 'treason'."

If You Were the Judge Six Years Not Too Long To Check

by Jack Straus, LL.B.

Barry's business was going so great there seemed to be no ceiling to his success. He was floored, however, when the government looked into his income tax returns, filed six years earlier, and charged him with income tax evasion. The government claimed he had untold wealth.

"Those returns were filed six years ago," Barry protested in court. "How am I supposed to remember what happened way back then? Under the Constitution, a citizen is required to be given a speedy trial. Waiting six years to press charges against me can hardly be considered very speedy!"

"Maybe not," conceded a tax official, "but that's how long it took us to find out that you short changed the government. It took time and now we're out to see that you get time."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you let Barry off the hook because the government failed to act with more dispatch?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the Sixth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution requires a speedy trial AFTER a person is indicted. The fact that it may take six years to check and recheck a man's income tax return does not bar his being indicted and tried for income tax evasion.

HONOLULU, I. The Honolulu police headquarters doesn't seem to be a deterrent to burglars.

Thieves recently broke into a finance company office located next door to the police station and escaped with about $400 after cracking the office safe.

Several years ago, a music store next door to the finance company was hit by burglars who stole $5,000 worth of merchandise.

In that burglary, police said the station's air conditioner blowers muffled the sound of the burglars breaking down the back door of the music store.

Sen. Robert Kennedy's Indiana victory technically gave him 61 of the state's 63 national convention votes, but subject to ratification and possible change by the state Democratic convention. Two delegates, the national committee-men, are free agents and not bound by primary results. In Ohio, results were delayed in two congressional districts, where candidates pledged to Sen. Eugene McCarthy were entered, with four of state's total 115 Democratic convention votes at stake. Sates pledged to favorite sons, Democrat Sen. Stephen Young and Republican Gov. James Rhodes, won otherwise.

THIS IS THE 1967 MUSTANG in which five students were drowned when their car slid off a wooden bridge Saturday night into six feet water in a drainage ditch.

Five Students Die When Car Plunges off Bridge

MATTHEWS - Five students drowned Saturday night when a 1967 Mustang, owned by Miss Wilma Sue Burns, 22, Maryland Heights, St. Louis county, skidded off an open wooden bridge, five miles northeast of here on the Champion lane road.

Drowned were Willis Ray Rogers Jr., 21, his sister, Mary Bess Rogers 16, and Mason L. Yarbrough, 17, all of route two, Matthews; Wilma Sue Burns, 22, Maryland Heights, and Karen Sue Galloway, 21, York, Pa.

Rogers, a University of Missouri junior at Columbia, brought Miss Burns and Galloway for a visit with his parents, who lived near the scene of the accident.

The five students left the Rogers home about 8:30 p.m. Saturday to buy refreshments in Sikeston. The bridge covers what is known as the Swift drainage ditch, and is near a swimming place called Wolf hole.

The bridge is on a straight line with a gravel road. It is believed the car slid off the runners of the bridge. It then flipped over on its top in water six feet deep, trapping the occupants.

It was raining. All windows of the two-door car were rolled up.

The students were missing Saturday night. Police were alerted and a search began.

Willis Ray Rogers Sr., the father of two of the victims and Flip Dees, a deputy sheriff, found the overturned car in the ditch, with the wheels above the water, Sunday at 9 a.m.

The gravel road is between Interstate 55 and highway 61, about four miles south of Sikeston. The ditch is about one mile east of highway 61.

There are no bridge railings on the 40-foot wooden span.

Young Rogers was a junior at the University of Missouri. His sister was a junior in Matthews high school.

Yarbrough was a senior at Matthews high and president of student council. He was a candidate for graduation Thursday night.

Miss Galloway was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Galloway

of York, and a junior at Stephens College, Columbia.

Miss Burns was the daughter of Mrs. Glen Blake, Maryland Heights. She was also a student.

Rogers was born April 9, 1947, at East Prairie.

Survivors are his father and mother, one sister, Mrs. Barbara Kay Causey of Sikeston; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Delia Tanksley of East Prairie.

He was a member of the Church of God.

His sister was born June 1, 1951, at East Prairie. She also was a member of the Church of God.

Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Charles and David Keith Yarbrough, both of Matthews; two half brothers, Jimmy Yarbrough of Zion, Ill., and Ronald Hartline of Cape Girardeau; two half sisters, Mrs. Bobby Joe Sweet of Fox Lake, Ill., and Mrs. Gene Ditt of East Prairie; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Georgia Hartline of Sikeston and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Yarbrough of Sikeston.

Yarbrough had been a resident of New Madrid county most of his life.

Services for Rogers, his sister and Yarbrough will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Shelby

Funeral Chapel in East Prairie with the Rev. Charles Gammill Ray, minister, assisted by Rev. J. L. Hatchell of East Prairie, officiating.

Burial will be in the WOW cemetery at East Prairie.

Miss Galloway was born Oct. 30, 1946, in Philadelphia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Galloway of York.

Her body was flown today from the Shelby Funeral Home to Riley Funeral Home in York. Services will be in the chapel there at 9 a.m. Wednesday with burial in the Mont Rose cemetery in York.

Miss Burns was born at East Prairie. The body is at the Shelby Funeral Home.

THE SWIFT DITCH was the scene of the fatal drowning of five students Saturday night. Their car left this wooden bridge, overturned and landed on its top. The camera is pointed east on the Champion lane gravel road, one mile east of highway 61, five miles north of Matthews. The car was pulled from the water in the foreground.

Suspended Charleston Patrolman Discharged

CHARLESTON - Suspended wearing a uniform when the police patrolman Frank Hudson incident took place.

While driving out of today by City Manager James Charleston, he said he saw two Butts as a result of an incident in Negro youths beating another the Negro section Tuesday night. Negro with clubs in front of a Butts said the decision was made at Elm and Marshall streets.

His own, based on Hudson's "irrational action and imprudent use of firearms."

Hudson, 29, had been with the police department since March. Hudson was off duty and not 19, and Walter Spencer, 18. The man who was being beaten was Purvis Lark, 29. Lark told police they were only playing.

Before police got to the patrol car, Betts kicked the patrolman Richard Wallace in the groin with his knee and struck him near the right eye with his fist, Wallace said.

Betts fled and Hudson asked patrolman Jerry Grimes for his pistol. Grimes had been dispatched to the scene after a crowd of Negroes gathered.

Hudson fired two shots in the air to disperse the crowd and chased Betts, firing a third shot in the air to stop the youth. Hudson said he grabbed Betts and hit him in the face, and Betts broke away again.

Hudson then fired a shot over Betts' head.

Betts was taken to the police station.

Butts said that he turned the matter of Betts over to City Attorney W. G. Banta, who will investigate to determine whether charges against the youth will be filed.

U.S., Hanoi Exchange Scale-Down Challenges

PARIS (AP) The United States and North Vietnam challenged each other today to take new steps to scale down the war in Southeast Asia. Both pledged serious efforts to find some basis for a peaceful settlement.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam, who spoke first at the opening round of substantive talks, called on the United States to end the rest of the bombing and "all other acts of war" against his country, but did so in words softer than expected. He made no threat of breaking off the talks if the demand is not quickly granted.

President Johnson's spokesman, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, asked for some sign of military restraint by North Vietnam that would meet the President's request for a de-escalation response to his March 31 ban of part of the bombing. What actually happened, Harriman charged, is that North Vietnam has moved "substantial and increasing numbers of troops and supplies from the North to the South."

U.S. officials expected a blast from Thuy and they were not surprised when they got it. He accused the United States of aggression in South Vietnam and said the more it was defeated the more cruelly it responded - increasing attacks and sending in troops.

At the same time, he said he and his delegation had "come here with an attitude which is serious and full of good will."

Harriman opened his statement by saying the United States rejected many points Thuy had made but that the

He was given emergency treatment in the Chester hospital and transferred to Barnes hospital in St. Louis.

POLITICAL REGULATION ON TRIAL

President Johnson has formally designated the week of May 14 as National Transportation Week and May 19 as National Defense Transportation Day. In his proclamation, he declared, "America's transportation network is a living testament to our system of free enterprise" but warned that to meet sharply rising demands for transportation services "transportation facilities must double every 20 years." The Chief Executive predicted the new Department of Transportation would help the transportation industry "develop new techniques and better integration of service... to assure the Nation the best, the most economical and the fastest transportation services the world has ever seen."

It is true that the transportation system in this country is a magnificent testimonial to the ability of investor owned, taxpaying industry to meet the astronomical transport demands of a nation of 200 million people. It is also true that our transport system is a product of free enterprise. But the term free enterprise as applied to transportation does not mean the same thing as in other areas of private endeavor. This is particularly true of the railroads, which are subject to archaic regulations — archaic because they were formulated when the rails were about the only means of transport and enjoyed a virtual monopoly position.

Today, the picture is far different. and the future of rail transport depends, in large measure, upon the updating of regulation. It is equally important that tax measures, such as the investment tax credit, be designed to encourage modernization and continuing investment in new and more efficient equipment. Most authorities now agree that despite short-term setbacks, the resurging rail industry faces a bright future. It is reestablished as a primary element of the transportation system. However, to a greater degree than other "free enterprise," its progress rests on the wisdom of those public officials who establish and carry out national transportation policy.

EAGLETON URGES LAW AND ORDER, PLUS ATTACK ON CAUSES OF RIOTS

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator from Missouri on issues yesterday in a campaign swing Ralls, Marion, and Lewis Counties.

Eagleton attended coffee hours in both Hannibal and Center in the morning and delivered speeches on the Hannibal-LaGrange campus of Missouri Baptist College in Hannibal and at Culver-Stockton College in Canton.

Vietnam was the subject of most questions put to Eagleton by students and newsmen alike during the day. The lieutenant governor stated that he was "pleased with the peace overtures presently being made by President Johnson toward a solution of the conflict." He called for a cease for agreement to be the first order of business for any Washington-Hanoi talks.

On the subject of urban disorders, the former Missouri attorney general suggested a two-prong attack be made on urban slums and "pockets of despair in our cities." He first called for "a re-emphasis of respect for law and order." Eagleton stated that looting, sniping, and arson could not be tolerated in our society. "Secondly," he continued, "we must attack the root of our urban problems through both the public and private sectors of our society. We must make a job and an education available to the 'unemployables' of our urban center."

Eagleton advocated a tax break for industries which had training programs for unemployed and unskilled in the cities.

He also called the President's proposed tax increase "distasteful, but necessary at this time." The increase is needed, he maintained, to curb inflation and reduce the federal budget deficit.

When asked what special interest he would have if elected, Lt. Gov. Eagleton replied that he "would like to become a participating Senator taking a broad interest in the varied fields of foreign policy, tax policy, urban problems, and rural America, rather than specializing in just one area."

Eagleton did not disclose a preference for any candidate now seeking the Democratic nomination for president. Stating that he respect all three men who are now seeking the Democratic nomination for President. Stating that he respect all three men who are now seeking or thought to be seeking the nomination, Eagleton continued to say that he favored the Missouri delegation to the convention supporting Gov. Warren Hearnes as a "favorite son" candidate on the first ballot, allowing them to make their final decision at the convention.

A young man never realizes how much he owes to the respectability of his parents until he does something of a supressable nature.

Legislation to prohibit industry-wide labor bargaining is favored by 84 per cent of the businessmen polled by the National Federation of Independent Business.

"Overheard" causes many a man to lose his head.

Television is a wonderful medium for use by candidates who can afford to buy the time.

It permits them to speak to thousands and sometimes millions of viewers.

There is only one thing better and that is to see the candidates when they appear in person.

This also is expensive and often inconvenient.

Part of the audience also is lost. There are many lazy Americans, who will sit at home and listen to a candidate but not walk across a street to hear one.

Television appearances test a candidate to the breaking point and beyond.

Few candidates are former actors although the few who are can make a wonderful television appearance.

It may be true that a phony can be spotted quickly on television and that the virtues of sincerity and straight-forward good character are rewarded by the medium.

In between the blacks and whites is a sea of grey into which all the presidential candidates have been tossed.

The best of them don't look too handsome or sound too well. The reason they don't is that the best of them are compared by the public with the most able television commentators, who know how to dress, how to make-up, how to pose and how to act in the most convincing manner.

How do Richard Nixon, Bobby Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy, Nelson Rockefeller, Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace compare with Harry Reasoner, Walter Cronkite, Chet Huntley and David Brinkley?

They don't.

The obvious remedy would be to induce the television personalities to run for the presidency. Without any effort to disparage the television industry it is probably true that in most instances that if any of these men were elected president, the country would not be pleased with the results.

There is more to running the country than in projecting a pleasant personality on television and in making the daily news events unfold in an interesting and engaging way.

The welfare of the country may be expected to continue to be served by politicians, who as television entertainers are second raters.

A majority of the American public favors cutting down on government spending for programs within the United States, according to an Opinion Research Corp. national survey. The poll indicated that public concern over inflation has reached a new high, and that a majority of families report that they have been hurt by inflation. These families report that rising prices have caused them to change their shopping habits. The members of Congress should heed the voices of the people and drastically cut federal spending for domestic programs.

Those who attack the use of trade-names, as in the pharmaceutical industry, overlook their vital function in the marketplace. According to the National Association of Manufacturers, "One of the most powerful factors in our American economy is the consumer's freedom of choice to purchase or to reject a particular product or service. By experience, assessing relative values, and through trade-name acceptance, the average consumer has become a most effective buyer. Legislative restrictions on the use of trade-names and compulsory use of generic ones would hinder rather than help the consumer at the marketplace."

To tell all you know is to be a bore.

At a time when other living costs are zooming upward news of a reduction in automobile rates certainly is welcome.

But Bootheel residents should ponder the two per cent rate reduction, the lowest given in Missouri, and take intelligent action to improve their driving habits.

The average rate reduction, which applies only to renewals of existing insurance policies, in the state is almost six per cent and the highest in metropolitan St. Louis amounts to 27 per cent. In neighboring Cape Girardeau county the reduction is nine per cent. The reason that the Bootheel counties didn't get a larger reduction in rate is because they didn't earn it. Residents have been responsible for too many costly accidents.

As a means of reducing the cost of insurance, saving life, avoiding injury, preventing destruction of property and averting lost time on the job, driver education should be available by licensed drivers for every adult who wants to take it.

The instruction is not now available to many of those who are willing to pay for learning how to drive properly or to improve their driving habits.

Driver education should be made a requirement for graduation in all Bootheel high schools. It is not a frill. It is a survival course. Education is not enough but it offers the best single hope of improving a bad driving record.

Better law enforcement, greater practice of brotherhood and courtesy by motorists and the refusal to mix gasoline in the car with alcohol in the driver all will contribute to a reduction in highway accidents.

The cost in dollars in the least offensive aspect of today's toll on Bootheel highways and streets but high insurance rates ultimately may spur drivers to do a better job behind the wheel. Appeals for other reasons haven't helped much.

NAM SAYS INDUSTRY OFFERS SOLUTION TO HARD-CORE JOBS

"The NAM shares President Johnson's conviction that providing training and jobs in private industry is the key to reducing hard-core unemployment," said W. P. Gullander, president, National Association of Manufacturers. "As the President has stated, six out of seven American jobs are provided by private employers. We welcome the recognition in this field the President's message that a and can look forward to continuing to hard-core unemployment. Good health requires a partnership between industry and government, greater efficiency and savings to We hope that there will be a full industry and thus provide their partnership in which industry will own incentive."

have an equal voice in planning and managing the program.

"The objective must be to convert those who are presently unemployed into workers who can hold jobs on the basis of their own worth and their own productivity. Private employers are in the best position to understand realistically the skills, experience, and work habits an individual must possess to attain that status."

"The NAM stands ready to cooperate in the work of the new National Alliance of Businessmen. In view of the need for Government economy, which has never been greater, we urge that the necessary money for this new effort be derived by curtailing other Government programs, including other manpower programs."

"The NAM will comment later upon the specifics that the President has indicated he will propose in the field of occupational safety and health. However, we must now express reservations about the proposals which the President has outlined in this message. Industry has achieved significant results in this field and can look forward to continuing to hard-core unemployment. Good health requires a partnership between industry and government, greater efficiency and savings to We hope that there will be a full industry and thus provide their partnership in which industry will own incentive."

"NAM is presently pioneering industrial mental health programs in addition to the familiar, continuing health and safety programs. We question the need for a major new federal program involving further regulation of industry practices in regard to health and safety," Mr. Gullander concluded.

STUDY. Under a pilot, $620,000 Office of Economic Opportunity grant to the University of Wisconsin, 800 families, beginning soon, will get "negative income tax" payments, averaging $1,200 apiece. These payments, like a guaranteed annual income, would make up, supposedly, the difference between what the family bread winner earned and $3,000, plus, considered to be the threshold of the "poverty line." The payments are designed to encourage bread winners to find jobs, or better paying jobs. As their earned income increased, the "guaranteed" payments would decrease.

TRAVEL. House of Representatives approval for members of two committees to travel abroad was granted recently—with the proviso that there be no collecting for more than one day's expense a day. Congressional travelers are limited by law to expense Monday of $50 per day in the currency of the country they are visiting, but, according to Rep. Gross (Iowa), some members in 1966 collected $100 a day more than once by going to two countries on the same day. The trip resulted, he said, in over-lapping collections of yen, rupees, drachmas, lira, escudos, marks and kroner. And what else is new on the balance of payments?

GONE. The General Accounting Office made a survey of how Office of Economic Opportunity funds were spent in one Kentucky county and found: $295,000 of the $1.1 million expended for the country's community action program "was in the nature of direct benefits to the poor." Travel costs of community council employees from 1964 through 1966, said GAO, amounted to more than $97,000, "almost one-third of the amount of funds that supposedly went directly to the poor."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

UNITED FRONT: Reuther Forces Prepare to Pull an Indiana For Bob Kennedy in California

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Indiana or no Indiana, labor's national high command, which has just gathered here, says it would rather fight than switch to Bob Kennedy.

That leaves New York's junior senator with just a minority of one — Walter Reuther — who wants to see the front runner sprint into the White House.

The Kennedy-Reuther coalition now is tightly interlocked, having been tempered by their shoulder-to-shoulder campaigning in the Hoosier state primary.

During the Martini moments in hotel lounges or suites, the national labor chiefs need no bitters for their drinks. They tell each other they'd have stopped Bob Kennedy last Tuesday instead of just slowing him, if not for that "redheaded son of a b— from Detroit."

That isn't elegant but it's accurate.

Reuther's political Citizenship councils, whipped up by UAW regional director Ray Brandt, went gung ho for Kennedy. They brought in Ted Kennedy. They called in their regional people to meet with him at special luncheons. They spent heavily. They supplied the missing link — a labor image for Kennedy's charisma and political fortune.

They helped "Bob" beat back even the powerful pro-Humphrey Steel Workers chiefs. No easy assignment, this.

The United Steelworkers District 31 in Lake County, running eastward from East Chicago along Lake Michigan, has over 75,000 members in the dense steel belt, half of whom are Negroes. In District 30 (Indianapolis), the huge union has 30,000 members.

Their national and regional leaders fought Bob Kennedy as though he were a latter-day Andrew Carnegie. But they lost. Reuther's constant attack on the nation's AFL-CIO leaders as "guardians of the status quo" and as enemies of Negro workers may not have been totally responsible for Kennedy's win, but the blasts did help.

All of it was encouraged by the "redhead" despite his concentration on the UAW convention in Atlantic City.

There is no doubt he was in contact with Kennedy's top strategists here and during their Indiana circuit riding. "Legislation like this will be like a red flag, a slap in the face of the marchers before they have even arrived here," agreed Walde. "Why jeopardize matters before the administration has had time to settle the problem?"

Cramer, however, didn't want any discussion. He kept calling on Rep. Moss and his administration aide, John Billett, committee and quick vote by the trator biz going full tilt in most of our nation while the people are not informed of their rights that they can form a corporation and escape tax can't cost and administration cost like corporations do. And for the less wealthy escape a sale under the hammer that many times destroys the estate of the head of the family he has spent the best years of his life working to acquire.

Nothing but great trouble can come from the announced intention by leaders of the so-called "Poor People's March" on Washington, D. C. to lay down a long siege of the nation's capital. The leader of the march, has said: "We'll remain for days, months if necessary. We will demand answers. We are going to back up our words with the most militant non-violent direct action in the nation's history."

That is a threat of violence, not a promise of non-violence. Many members of Congress have declared firmly that they will not act under threat of violence. The President has said, in effect, that the marchers should present their demands and then return home. But the advocates of "militant direct action" say they will do nothing of the kind. The demands leaders of the march placed before federal officials early this month would be impossible to meet even if they were desirable. It is estimated that what they asked for would cost U. S. taxpayers more than $25 billion a year. Demands include a guaranteed annual income for everybody, higher welfare payments, free food programs, instant creation by Congress of two million jobs — on and on.

The people of Washington are tense because of the recent riots there. They view with dismay and fear the prospect of an extended siege by people egged on by professional troublemakers. Senator Jennings Randolph, Democrat from West Virginia, told the U. S. Senate: "There are strong evidences of communist planning and participation in the forthcoming demonstrations." HLH

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I play professional baseball," Tim McCarver began. "I'm a catcher. The catcher calls the pitches, catches the ball, throws out runners and hits."

It's that simple. Just mechanics. Then the St. Louis Cardinals' catcher fills in the details. McCarver can fill them in, because he's rated one of the best at his job.

"Taking charge of a game, driving it, this is the catcher's job," McCarver acknowledged. "But you can't make it seem more important than it is. If you have an experienced pitcher he makes it look like you're taking charge. They know what to do and then they want to give you credit."

Even if it's the pitcher who is making McCarver look like he's in charge, M. McCarver is a take charge guy.

"If I seem like a take-charge guy I guess it's just the way I play the game," McCarver said. Like (Minnesota catcher John) Roseboro, he doesn't say anything and he's a take-charge guy. But he takes charge without anyone noticing he's taking charge.

"I might exhibit it more outwardly on the field, but it's just the way I do things," McCarver added. "I guess your personality shows through on the field."

"As far as I'm concerned, the mechanics of this position are more important—calling pitches, knowing hitters, that kind of thing—rather than running around and calving down pitchers."

"There are some pitchers you've got to boot in the rear every once in a while and others you don't say anything to," McCarver believes. "I tell them if I try to shake them up on the field there's nothing personal in it. If I refused to do it because I might hurt his feelings for an instant then I'm not doing my job."

"The Jtool of ignorance is an ironic name for the catcher's equipment," McCarver grinned. "The catcher really has to think."

"I try to anticipate things, reminding players about things like guarding the line in the late innings and things like that. It's the catcher's duty to do that. But nobody's perfect and you'd be surprised how many times players remind me of something. You can't remember it all. It's all part of living. Everybody has lapses. Nobody is too proud to be reminded."

At 26 McCarver has caught

more than 100 games for the Cardinals for the past five seasons. He has already played in two world championship teams.

What's the toughest part of catching?

"Hitting," the Memphis native laughed. "Sometimes hitting really is the toughest part."

"I think defense runs in streaks," said the lifetime .322 hitter. "I've gone weeks when I'll have two or three passed balls and then go months without one."

"But you can't take extra catching," Tim grinned again. "If you do it enough you won't have a chance to make mistakes. You'll be out of there."

McCarver was runnerup to Orlando Cepeda for the 1967 champion Cardinals in the

Gibson Handed Second Loss; Shannon Hammers Sixth

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Larry Dierker and Bob Gibson both figured they didn't want to be beaten by a walk, but figuring wasn't enough for Gibson.

The St. Louis Cardinals' right-hander gave up a basesloaded hit instead to Denis Menke, and that gave the Houston Astros a 3-2 victory over the Cardinals Sunday.

Dierker pledged before the game that he would concentrate on not walking any men, because 26 men in 53 innings is enough. And they always seem to beat him, he said.

Dierker didn't walk anybody Sunday, so there was nobody to beat him and he boosted his record to 3-5. Gibson's record dropped to 3-2.

"That was what I was concentrating on," Dierker said. "I didn't want to keep on walking guys. And it worked."

The 2-year-old right-hander didn't get many runs either, but he says he's reconciled to that.

"I didn't pitch well in my first two outings," Larry admitted, "but since then I've been pitching real well. They just haven't been able to get many runs for me. I was beginning to feel heaved."

The hex seemed to be on going into the seventh. Each team had scored an unearned run early in the game. Then in the fourth inning Mike Shannon of the Cards lined his six-homer of the year just over the left field wall.

Gibson looked like that onerun lead was all he would need. He struck out nine men in the first six innings and finished eight innings of work with a total of 10. But the Astros jumped him in the seventh.

Ron Davis led off with a single and after Norm Miller was hit by a pitch, Jim Wynn bunted for a hit and loaded the bases. Gibson got the next two men. Then, with the count ball-two, Menke singled in the go-ahead runs.

"He had to come in with a fast ball," Menke explained, "which I don't think he wanted to throw. But I think he would rather have a man beat him with a hit than a walk."

This is true, Gibson said.

Matty Alou Waits on Pitches And Hits to Opposite Field

By MATTY ALOU
Of the Pittsburgh Pirates

The big thing that helped me get to the major leagues was being quick with my hands. With a quick bat I was able to wait a bit longer to get a good look at the pitch.

Harry Walker helped me the most in 1966, the first year he was our manager. He's the only one who ever talked to me about hitting.

I was a pull hitter with the San Francisco Giants and in my last year with them, 1965, I hit only .231. So they traded me to the Pirates.

Harry knew I was a fast runner and being a left handed batter I could always get a good jump toward first base. He told me if I could hit to the opposite field left field — I would have a better batting average.

He worked with me the entire spring training of 1966. He wanted me to hit all pitches toward left field. What a difference it made. I hit .342 in 1966 and won the National League batting title. Not only that but by getting 183 base hits I was able to move my stolen bases up from 10 to 23.

Once in a while when the fielders play me more toward left field I pull the ball. I've got to keep the fielders honest so they don't bunch up on the left side.

To hit to left field I not only waited on the pitch a bit longer but I went to a heavier bat. It's 37 ounces. I used to swing a 32-ounce bat and would swing in a hurry.

I had trouble with the curve ball with the lighter bat. Now I hit a curve ball better than ever.

(Matty Alou, 29, hit .338 last season, third best figure in the National League. Now regarded as one of baseball's scientific hitters, in two years he moved his career average from .259 to .301. His older brother Felipe plays with Atlanta's Braves and his younger brother Jesus is with the Giants).

Oldest PGA tour winner in 1967 was 47-year-old Julius Boros.

Charleston School Plans Approved, Election May 28

CHARLESTON -- The R-1 board of education approved tentative plans for a new 900 to 1,000-student elementary school complex and has called a $580,000 bond issue election May 28.

The school would be located on the east end of the junior high school grounds, partially on the site of the football playing field. It would replace the old buildings at the Eugene Field and Mark Twain School locations, and would also accommodate children from Wyatt Washington and Lincoln Schools.

General outlines of the building were shown by Walter Kromm of the firm of Kromm, Rikimaru and Johansen, Inc., architects, St. Louis.

The proposed school will consist of a diamond-shaped "core" housing music rooms, kitchen, multi-purpose rooms (cafeteria and physical education), rest rooms and offices. On two ends of the diamond will be located four eight-sided pods, each containing four large open areas to be used as classrooms for a team of teachers. The center of each pod will house teachers' classroom for audio-visual instruction and library facilities.

A special joint meeting of the Mark Twain and Eugene Field Parent Teachers Associations will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. to begin organizing for the bond issue election campaign.

Discussing financing of the proposed new school, Superintendent Tom Wells said his figures show it can be paid for with a tax levy increase of 10 cents on the $100 valuation for four years. The 10-cent levy could be dropped after the 1972-73 school year, as earlier bond issues are paid off and payments begin to drop.

The board authorized the superintendent to proceed with removal of the football stadium from its present location to a site south of the new high school, clearing a place for the new elementary school.

Under the central school plan, Anniston and Bertrand will keep their elementary schools as at present, while Wyatt and Charleston youngsters will attend the central school in years 1 through 5, and Lincoln School in year 6.

The Washington School at Wyatt will be abandoned, and the new steel building at that location will be disassembled and moved to the high school grounds, where it will serve as a vocational agriculture building and athletic dressing rooms.

The present kindergarten building will be used as part of the central elementary school, and kindergarten instruction will be moved to the modern, one-story building on the Eugene field School grounds.

Polling places for the May 28 election will be the armory, Wyatt Washington, Bertrand School, and Anniston School.

Dear Mr. Blanton:
Just a note about your timely and well written editorial on May 6, in regards to socialism in general. My only hope would be, that more Editors through out the country would write such timely editorials as yours. This is just one instance, of many, in which governments are taking freedom away from professional and business people.

Keep up the good work and keep telling citizens of our District about these faults which are certainly not doing our country any good. I agree with you one hundred percent about this problem and many others.

Congratulations are also in order for the awards which your paper recently received at the Annual Missouri Press Association contest. My congratulations to you and the people of your paper for winning these awards.

My personal regards. Sincerely yours, Vernon H. Landgraf 1502 Independence Cape Girardeau, Missouri

Mr. Editor: You could really do a big favor for a group of exservice men, if you would kindly place the following release, in your paper. If possible, please send me a tear sheet, or clipping.

New Administration Tackles Lilborn Needs

LILBOURN - Lilborn's new administration was off to a rousing start Monday night as it considered such matters as fire trucks, wells, cleanup and drainage.

Officials installed for the first time were Mayor Jim Dambach, Alderman Joe Duncan and Police Judge L. V. Stevens.

Reappointed by the board were Harold Jones, city attorney, and Marge Stevens, city treasurer. Leon Riggs was appointed city clerk, replacing Dambach in that position.

The city accepted the bid of Towers Fire Apparatus Co., Inc., of Freeburg, Ill., to equip a new fire truck. The contract will be signed in about two weeks. Dambach said that the city plans to complete all details and place the order for the fire truck this month.

The mayor said that the board is studying the possibility of digging a second well to the city water system. He added that the Department of Health has recommended this for a long time.

A weed-infested alley in Lewis 4th Addition on the west side will come under the city's blade. The alley has a deep growth of weeds and bushes, which have hampered drain age. The mayor said Benny Morgan, street commissioner, has been authorized to ditch areas in the alley that need it. Morgan also has been assigned to open congested culverts which have been backing up water on Main Street after rains.

Periodic maintenance of the city water tank has been performed, which included flushing the tank and recoating its interior.

Evans Ordered Held for Trial In Deaths of Two

POPLAR BLUFF - Edna Lee Evans, a 39-year-old area drifter and former mental patient, was ordered held for trial in circuit court on two charges of first degree murder following a preliminary hearing.

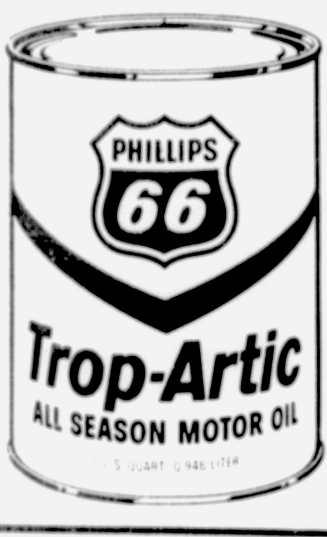

The hearing was conducted by Butler County Magistrate Judge Jack Jolly with Prosecuting Attorney William Batson representing the state.

Evans is accused in the slaying of Mrs. Maple Hudson Williams, 41, and Earl Myers, 75, at the Williams home in Neelyville on April 25. The victims were found shot to death, apparently with a large-caliber hunting rifle.

Evans was arrested by Trooper Kenneth Lancaster of Doniphan and Sheriff Lewis Daves at the home of Evans' cousin near Currentview. Evans has admitted the killings and was reported to have been a "close acquaintance" of Mrs. Williams. The defendant was present at the hearing, sobbing throughout the proceedings, but did not testify.

Middle guard Jim Pritchett and defensive tackle Chuck Andrews, members of Western Michigan's football team, were star shot putters in high school.

What makes a Pontiac a Pontiac?

(And what makes ordinary cars ordinary?)

Only Pontiacs have Wide-Track. Drive a Pontiac and you'll wonder who took all the bumps and curves out of the road.

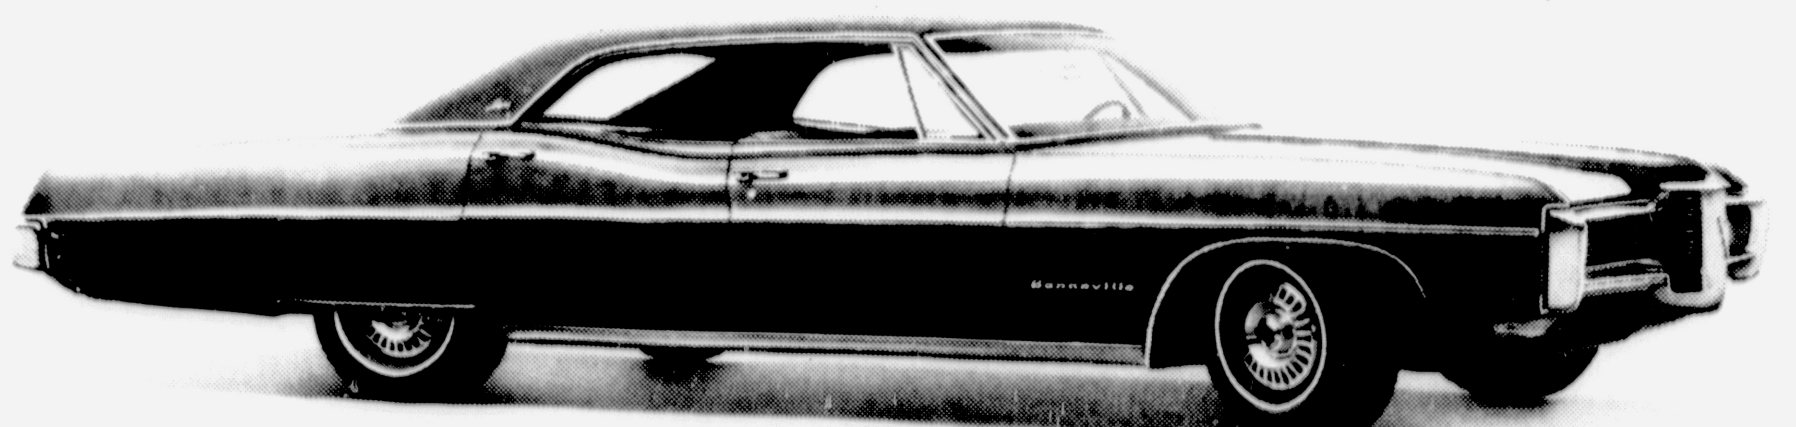

Even our lowest priced Pontiac has a unique 175-hp Overhead Cam Six. Unless you count cylinders, you'll swear it's a V-8.

Pontiac interiors make you glad you left home - soft Morrokide and simulated wood trim so real only a termite can tell it isn't.

Innovations like GTO's Bumper-of-the-Year make Pontiacs look expensive. But record sales prove we know how to price them, too.

RESPONSIVE

The slightest touch elicits an immediate response from a sensitive plant. Here seedlings are growing in a pre-planted container; can be potted later for house use or grown outdoors.

The most delicate touch of a fingertip on a single leaflet of a sensitive plant is sufficient to cause that leaflet to fold up in response.

Run the tip of a finger down the stem from which leaflets grow and all of them collapse, face to face, one against another. Hit the stem, no matter how gently, and it will instantly bend downward.

The person who named the sensitive plant Mimosa pudica in botanical Latin must have had a sense of humor for Mimosa comes from the Greek word "mimos", an actor, while pudica means modest. A modest actor it indeed — retreating at a touch.

This physiological response of the true leaves to touch makes the sensitive plant one of the most remarkable in the plant kingdom.

It has been a source of wonder to successive generations of children who like nothing better than to watch the plant react to their manipulations. Oddly, the first two leaves to appear (the seed leaves) do not respond to touch.

Of course these startling movements do the plant no harm. It recovers within minutes (faster if it is growing in full sun), but it may be several hours before it performs again.

Sensitive plant, a native of the sub-tropics, may be grown from seeds for use as a house plant or in the garden. Its only needs are a sunny spot and constant moisture in the soil.

The fine, lace leaves are pretty, the ball-shaped pink to lavender flowers dainty, the plant is easy to grow. So easy that it is available in pre-planted containers at your supermarket. Grow it yourself and be sure to send a container to the nearest school so the children may grow and watch this wonder.

Men Ready in Reserve

The U.S. Army Reserve is 60 years old this month. But that's only the age of the name. For, as every schoolboy knows, the man behind the name traces his origins as a citizen-soldier far back to the hearty, individualistic Minutemen of the colonial militias.

When the nation's reservists mark April 23 — the 60th anniversary of the day in 1908 when Congress established the Medical Reserve Corps — they will be calling attention to the modern descendants of the militia: the Army Reserve and the Army National Guard, which was created as a new component of the Army on June 5, 1933.

At the same time, we might also call attention to the descendants of the Minutemen: the Guardsmen and the Army Reservists. Their legacy of service remains unchanged, though certainly their weapons and materiel have greatly changed. The modern men in defense make an important contribution to the nation's reserve in many ways.

• They fight. In Vietnam today nearly 75 per cent of all officers on duty have Army Reserve commissions or warrants.

• They're ready to fight. Some 150,000 Guardsmen and Reservists form a Selected Reserve Force prepared to handle crises anywhere. With combat, combat support and service support elements, this force is considered the most ready reserve element in the nation's history.

• They defend. Army National Guardsmen man more than 40 per cent of the Nike Hercules air defense missile sites in the continental United States.

• They're ready to defend. The National Guard has a drill strength of some 400,000 men, and the Army Reserve has a ready reserve strength of 260,000 — all prepared for immediate mobilization in an emergency.

They do all this and much more. Like Americans on active military duty around the world, Guardsmen and Army Reservists are pledged to preserving the freedom their forebearers won. They are the nation's strength in reserve. (ANP)

HERE'S AN IDEA for homemakers who want to keep their figures trim and their home sparkling at the same time. You can plan an exercise routine whereby you'll burn up calories and increase muscle tone while under-taking your spring cleaning chores. Arm muscles can become firmer as you vacuum your Venetian blinds.

TIRUCHIRAPPALLI, India (AP) — Two customs officers had a spicy case on their hands. The officers, on a motorcycle, gave chase to a car which sped through a checkpoint near this south Indian city. The driver finally abandoned his car, dived into a river and escaped. The officers found in the car five bags of cloves, presumably smuggled into India from Ceylon.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SUGGESTIONS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITAL

MISSOURI MEDICAL SCHOOL

A special report released last week to the Missouri Commission on Higher Education estimates that the state will have to produce about 100 more medical school graduates per year from among state residents to meet the growing need for doctors.

The report prepared by the State W. Wilson of Vanderbilt University, also pointed out enrollment increases in the state's three medical and two osteopathic schools will not be sufficient to make up the deficit. Although no specific recommendations for action, the report did describe two possible alternatives.

Expansion of the University of Missouri Medical School in Columbia, which alternative being considered by the Commission on Higher Education, is not discussed in the report.

Missouri's present medical schools are located at St. Louis University and Washington University of St. Louis. The two colleges of osteopathy and surgery are at Kansas City and St. Joseph.

The report called for a medical school in Kansas City, which would be a full four-year program.

It also called for a medical school in St. Louis, which would be a full four-year program.

Missouri's ratio of doctors to population is about the national average, but only because it has the highest ratio of osteopathic physicians of any state. Two of the nation's five osteopathic schools are located in Missouri.

If current trends hold true, the number of doctors in the state will increase 2 per cent in the next ten years. In the same period, the state's population is expected to increase 15.2 per cent.

The University Medical School graduates 1,600 M.D.s per year for 100,000 population, a ratio equal to that in Illinois, but less than half the ratio for Kansas and Oklahoma, one-third the ratio for Nebraska and one-fifth the ratio for Arkansas.

A low proportion of Missouri medical school graduates stay in the state to practice. And the percentage of out-of-state graduates coming into Missouri is decreasing.

At present, the state's three medical schools plus 49 enrollment increase of 49 students by 1970. Thirty per cent will be at the University Medical School and the two osteopathic schools project an enrollment increase of 11 per cent.

Dr. Olson indicates that a Missouri medical school is more likely to stay in the state to practice, but the effort to build up the state's medical personnel and training facilities will take time. "If it were determined that a new medical school should be established in practice. These objectives could be obtained in a somewhat shorter period of time through the support of expanded enrollment in existing schools," the report says.

However, Dr. Olson also said it might be unconstitutional for the state to support private medical schools. State constitutions in Pennsylvania, Florida and Kentucky do allow this support, he said.

Ann Landers Dutiful Daughter Tells Pitfalls of Her Plight

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for "Dutiful Daughter" if I hope it is not too late for her.

I was also a Dutiful Daughter. My dear mother never had a healthy breath. When her two sons, the first and the second, both lost Father died, the duty fell on me.

No man I dated was "suitable." Tom did not come from a background worthy of mine. Dick was after my money.

The report estimates the cost of supporting a single resident student at a private medical school at $5,000 a year.

MISSOURI GOVERNOR BUSY WITH SPEECHES

Missouri Governor Warren E. Hearnes has been busy the past few weeks with many speaking engagements, speaking out against chaotic and unruly government.

Addressing a civic club in Springfield on May 4, he proclaimed that "no individual or group regardless of their cause can be allowed to contribute to chaos." Hearnes mentioned that he had been mentioned for the "authorization of deadly force" in the recent election.

Later in an address at Clinton College on May 7, the Governor spoke of the right of dissent among college students. He said that although the avenues of dissent must be kept open, at the same time "disorderly dissent into lawlessness" must not be tolerated.

Hearnes cited a few student demonstrations of the past few weeks "done under the guise of 'protest' and 'dissent' rather than under the somewhat more accurate terms of 'lawlessness' and perhaps even 'treason'."

If You Were the Judge Six Years Not Too Long To Check

by Jack Straus, LL.B.

Barry's business was going so great there seemed to be no ceiling to his success. He was floored, however, when the government looked into his income tax returns, filed six years earlier, and charged him with income tax evasion. The government claimed he had untold wealth.

"Those returns were filed six years ago," Barry protested in court. "How am I supposed to remember what happened way back then? Under the Constitution, a citizen is required to be given a speedy trial. Waiting six years to press charges against me can hardly be considered very speedy!"

"Maybe not," conceded a tax official, "but that's how long it took us to find out that you short changed the government. It took time and now we're out to see that you get time."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you let Barry off the hook because the government failed to act with more dispatch?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the Sixth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution requires a speedy trial AFTER a person is indicted. The fact that it may take six years to check and recheck a man's income tax return does not bar his being indicted and tried for income tax evasion.

(Based upon a 1961 U. S. Court of Appeals Decision.)

Thieves recently broke into a finance company office located next door to the police station and escaped with about $400 after cracking the office safe.

Several years ago a music store next door to the finance company was hit by burglars who stole $5,000 worth of merchandise.

In that burglary, police said the station's air conditioner blowers muffled the sound of the burglars breaking down the back door of the music store.

Sen. Robert Kennedy's Indiana victory technically gave him 61 of the state's 63 national convention votes, but subject to ratification and possible change by the state Democratic convention. Two delegates, the national committee-men, are free agents and not bound by primary results. In Ohio, results were delayed in two congressional districts, where candidates pledged to Sen. Eugene McCarthy were entered, with four of state's total 115 Democratic convention votes at stake. Slates pledged to favorite sons, Democrat Sen. Stephen Young and Republican Gov. James Rhodes, won otherwise.
